Poll question 1

Is there a specialized court for international child abduction cases in your country?

- a) Yes
- b) No

Section I

Article 3 of the Convention of The Hague on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction 1980

I. Article 3 of the Convention of The Hague (1)

The removal or the retention of a child is to be considered wrongful where –

- a) it is in breach of rights of custody attributed to a person, an institution or any other body, either jointly or alone, under the law of the State in which the child was habitually resident immediately before the removal or retention; and*
- b) at the time of removal or retention those rights were actually exercised, either jointly or alone, or would have been so exercised but for the removal or retention.*

The rights of custody mentioned in sub-paragraph a) above, may arise in particular by operation of law or by reason of a judicial or administrative decision, or by reason of an agreement having legal effect under the law of that State.

Poll question 2

Until what age is a child subject to a return proceeding in application of the Convention of The Hague?

- a) 16
- b) 18
- c) The age of majority in the country of his or her habitual residence

Section II

Article 13 of the Convention of The Hague on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction 1980

II. Article 13 of the Convention of The Hague (1)

Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding Article, the judicial or administrative authority of the requested State is not bound to order the return of the child if the person, institution or other body which opposes its return establishes that -

- a) the person, institution or other body having the care of the person of the child was not actually exercising the custody rights at the time of removal or retention, or had consented to or subsequently acquiesced in the removal or retention; or*
- b) there is a grave risk that his or her return would expose the child to physical or psychological harm or otherwise place the child in an intolerable situation.*

The judicial or administrative authority may also refuse to order the return of the child if it finds that the child objects to being returned and has attained an age and degree of maturity at which it is appropriate to take account of its views.

In considering the circumstances referred to in this Article, the judicial and administrative authorities shall take into account the information relating to the social background of the child provided by the Central Authority or other competent authority of the child's habitual residence.
